PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

In its Motion to Dismiss, defendant Fujikura America, Inc. (“FAI”), a wholly-owned and/or controlled subsidiary of defendant Fujikura Ltd. (“Fujikura”), contends that Direct Purchaser Plaintiffs’ (“DP Plaintiffs”) Consolidated Amended Complaint (“CAC”) fails to state a claim against FAI because DP Plaintiffs’ allegations concerning the participation of FAI in the alleged conspiracy are insufficient under Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007). See FAI’s Memorandum in Support of Motion to Dismiss All Actions (“FAI MTD”) at 2. In addition, FAI argues that Fujikura’s alleged role in the conspiracy says nothing about FAI’s involvement. FAI’s arguments are legally and factually baseless, and neither warrants dismissal of DP Plaintiffs’ Complaint. Id. at 2-3.

ARGUMENT

I. DP PLAINTIFFS’ ALLEGATIONS CONCERNING FAI ARE LEGALLY SUFFICIENT

FAI’s first argument is that the CAC is insufficient because it does not allege that FAI was a member of the conspiracy, but only that FAI was a participant in the market for Wire Harness Products. See FAI MTD. at 1-2.

As an initial matter, contrary to FAI’s assertion, the CAC sufficiently alleges that FAI participated in the conspiracy. The CAC has alleged that numerous defendants, including FAI, conspired to fix prices for Wire Harness Products, and provides details concerning the formation, execution and fraudulent concealment of the conspiracy. See CAC at ¶¶ 2, 106-114, 138-152. As a named defendant, all such allegations are necessarily directed towards FAI (unless otherwise noted).<sup>1</sup> Moreover, DP Plaintiffs have alleged specific factual details concerning FAI, including but not limited to, the following:

- That FAI is a wholly owned or controlled subsidiary of its parent, Fujikura. Id. at ¶ 32;
- That FAI manufactured, marketed or sold Wire Harness Products throughout the United States during the Class Period. Id. at ¶ 33;
- That FAI's activities during the Class Period were "under the control and direction of" Fujikura. Id. at ¶ 33;
- That in June 2011, Fujikura was disciplined by the Japanese Fair Trade Commission for violating antitrust laws regarding the trading of wire harnesses and fined $14.8M. Id. at 19;
- That in January 2012, among other defendants in this action, Fujikura was issued a cease-and-desist order by the Japanese Fair Trade Commission based on its violation of Japanese antitrust law, and fined $14.4M. Id. at ¶ 133; and
- That in April 2012, Fujikura pled guilty to a criminal information brought by the United States Department of Justice charging it with conspiring to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize and maintain the prices of Wire Harness Products in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act and agreed to pay a $20M fine for its role in the conspiracy. Id. at ¶ 137.

FAI misconstrues what is required under Twombly. A complaint alleging a Section 1 violation "must adequately allege the plausible involvement of each defendant and put defendants on notice of the claims against them, but it need not be detailed with overt acts by each defendant.” Hinds County v. Wachovia Bank N.A., 700 F. Supp. 2d 378, 394 (S.D.N.Y. 2010) (“Hinds II”); see also In re Polyurethane Foam Antitrust Litig., 799 F. Supp. 2d 777, 794 (N.D. Ohio 2011) (“Polyurethane II”) (Twombly does not require a mandatory checklist of the “who, what, when, where and how” for each defendant); United States v. Osborne, 2011 WL 7640990, *4 (N.D. Ohio Dec. 15, 2011) quoting Polyurethane II, 799 F. Supp. 2d at 794 (“[C]ourts must be alert to arguments from a defendant that Twombly requires a plaintiff to advance specific factual allegations describing the particularized ‘who, what, when, where and how’ of the defendant’s liability”). Indeed, in Hinds II, the court rejected the argument that a single allegation directed towards a defendant was insufficient under Twombly. Hinds II, 700 F. Supp. 2d at 395 (“Plaintiffs need not necessarily provide any particular details about conduct undertaken by [a defendant] in furtherance of the conspiracy”).

<sup>1</sup> To the extent that FAI argues that these allegations (i.e., "the actions of 'Defendants' generally") are insufficient, FAI refers to the arguments contained in Defendants' Collective Briefs. Accordingly, Plaintiffs respond to Defendants' Collective Motion to Dismiss the Direct Purchaser Actions in their Opposition to the Collective Brief. See Direct Purchaser Plaintiffs' Response in Opposition to Defendants' Collective Motion to Dismiss.

And, even if a complaint contains no factual allegations specific to a particular defendant’s participation in an alleged conspiracy, a court may take judicial notice of allegations concerning governmental investigations. See, e.g., In re Refrigerant Compressors Antitrust Litig., 2012 WL 2114997, *8 (E.D. Mich. June 11, 2012) (although complaint contained no factual allegations concerning specific conduct by defendants, court took judicial notice of defendants’ plea agreement in sustaining complaint); see also In re Packaged Ice Antitrust Litig., 723 F. Supp. 2d 987, 998-99 (E.D. Mich. 2010) (on a motion to dismiss, taking judicial notice of defendants’ plea agreements with United States Department of Justice).

DP Plaintiffs’ allegations listed above are those of fact. Taken as true, as they must be at this stage of the proceedings, they sufficiently allege FAI’s participation in the conspiracy.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> The cases FAI cites in support of its argument that Plaintiffs’ Complaint does not allege sufficient involvement by FAI are distinguishable. Two of the cases involve instances in which the plaintiffs did not even

II. DP PLAINTIFFS HAVE ALLEGED A SUFFICIENT CORPORATE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN FUJIKURA AND FAI

In an attempt to distance itself from its corporate parent Fujikura, which has been found guilty of violating the antitrust laws of both Japan and the United States in connection with Wire Harness Products, FAI vaguely argues that DP Plaintiffs' factual allegations concerning Fujikura's established antitrust violations, fines and criminal guilty plea concerning Wire Harness Products have nothing to do with FAI because they are separate entities and DP Plaintiffs have not alleged otherwise. FAI MTD at 2 n. 3. FAI's argument is unavailing.

It is well-settled law in this Circuit that even in the absence of direct allegations that a parent company's subsidiaries were co-conspirators, the court may "look beyond those entities' corporate forms if the complaint presents enough facts to support a determination that the subsidiaries were alter egos of the parent corporation." Carrier Corp. v. Outokumpu Oyj, 673 F. 3d 430, 445 (6th Cir. 2012). As noted above, DP Plaintiffs have alleged that FAI is the wholly owned or controlled subsidiary of Fujikura, and that during the Class Period, FAI's activities were "under the control and direction of" Fujikura. See CAC at ¶¶ 32-33.<sup>3</sup> allege that the defendant actually participated in the conspiracy. See Hinds County v. Wachovia Bank N.A., 620 F. Supp. 2d 499, 512 (S.D.N.Y. 2009) (complaint did not even allege that defendants were involved in the price-fixing conspiracy at issue, but only that they were involved in the sale of municipal derivatives (i.e., in the industry); In re Travel Agent Comm. Antitrust Litig., 2007 WL 3171675, *4 (N.D. Ohio Oct. 29, 2007) (only allegation in complaint concerning defendant was that it was present at trade association meetings). Defendants other case, Total Benefits Planning Agency, Inc. v. Anthem Blue Cross & Blue Shield, 552 F. 3d 430, 436 (6th Cir. 2008) involved the dismissal of a complaint alleging a group boycott because "nowhere did [p]laintiffs allege" any details concerning the conspiracy.

At best, FAI's argument raises questions of fact not appropriate for resolution at the pleading stage. See Polyurethane II, 799 F. Supp. 2d 784; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co.

<sup>3</sup> Again, the cases cited by FAI are readily distinguishable. RSM Prod. Corp., v. PDVSA, 338 F. Supp. 2d 1208 (D. Col. 2004) deals with the necessary dismissal of claims against a subsidiary where the complaint treated the entities as one and the parent was immune from suit. Id. at 1216. Moreover, both In re Title Ins. Antitrust Cases, 702 F. Supp. 2d 840 (N.D. Ohio 2010) and Cupp v. Alberto-Culver USA, Inc., 310 F. Supp. 2d 963 (W.D. Tenn. 2004) involve courts dismissing claims against parent companies because in both instances -- unlike here -- the complaint contained no allegations that the parent played any role in the unlawful conduct. See In re Title Ins., 702 F. Supp. 2d at 878 n. 28; Cupp, 310 F. Supp. 2d at 972-73 (complaint "mentions absolutely no action by either [parent]").

v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, 2007 WL 2950698 (E.D. Mich. Oct. 10, 2007) (declining to dismiss complaint for failure to plead parent-subsidiary liability since corporate veil inquiry “tends to be intensively fact-driven”).

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, FAI's Motion should be denied.
